Medicine Herb Supplier Pty Ltd supplies the brand “Obayherbs”, in which more than 400 types of 1:10 single formula of concentrated granules are produced from Sichuan New Green Pharmaceutical Technology Development Stock Co., Ltd.

Sichuan New Green Pharmaceutical Technology Development Stock Co., Ltd. is one of six enterprises in China that has been authorized by State Food and Drug Administration Bureau to manufacture granules. It is also a sole company in China that possesses Good Agricultural Practice of Medicinal Plants and Animals (GAP) bases for planting Chinese medicine and then uses Good Manufacturing Practice (GMP) production standard in manufacturing granules. It has formed a comprehensive system for quality control in breeding, cultivation, processing and production. The sales network not only covers Australia, but also in Japan, Hong Kong, Southeast Asia, Australia, the United States, Canada, Europe and other countries.

Our company’s single formula granules have always received positive feedbacks and recognitions from thousands of Chinese practitioners across different states in the past decade. In order to sustain continuous improvement, the granules have a new packing and are branded as “Obayherbs”. The label on the bottle is more standardized, with Chinese & English translation, order code numbers and clearly shown of herbal ingredients and the prices remain unchanged, thus rendering the products very competitive in the market. Accompanied with the mission of providing excellent service to our customers, we must satisfy your personal needs.
Raw Material Selection & Processing
High quality raw materials are regularly selected from the best regions, and many GAP bases for planting Chinese medicine are established in order to ensure its quality and grading. There is a rigorous test on indicators regarding the qualitative, pesticidal and heavy metal contents.

Extraction
Extraction standards are set up based on each single herb according to the physical and chemical properties, compositions and functions by using orthogonal method to compare the effects of applying different solvents, amounts, extraction durations and extraction rates in order to determine the extraction parameter. Additionally, specific and advanced technology is selected for each individual herb, thus increasing the extraction rate and enhancing the therapeutic effect. For example, technologies such as the steam distillation and temperature-controlled extraction are used in the process of extracting those herbs with vaporizable components.

Filtration & Concentration
The three-part centrifugal and pipe-centrifugal separation methods are used to remove impurities. As the heating time is short, herbs with heat-sensitive components are not broken down, degenerate and polluted.

Spray Drying Technology
The extracts are dried by the high speed spray drying technology and then formed into dried extract powder in a moment. It can eliminate the need for many operations such as evaporating, separating, and grinding. It is highly suited for those herbs with high heat sensitivity.

Dried Granule production
After the dried extract powders are sieved and mixed, the dried granules production technology is applied in manufacturing granules without adding any co-materials.

Interior & Exterior packing
The automatic packing machine is used to complete all the procedures of packing concentrated granules.

The relationship between raw herbs and 1:10 concentrated granules
The 1:10 equivalent relationship is obtained from the comparison between the actual feeding amount of raw herbs and actual yield of extracted powder. To illustrate, feeding 100kg of raw herbs can extract dried powder of 10kg± 5%. Strict control is undertaken in the process of extraction in order to unify the ratio.
